(Senate photo by Bill Clark/CQ Roll Call) WASHINGTON — As the Trump administration ratcheted up the pressure on Venezuelan President Nicolas Maduro in recent weeks, millions of Americans became increasingly interested in knowing more about the political tensions that led to the U.S. recognizing opposition leader Juan Guaido as the country's interim president in late January. A new poll from the Institute of Politics at the Harvard Kennedy School found that a majority of the country believes there is not enough coverage in the media of what is happening in Venezuela, something that the poll says has a negative impact on the way the public thinks about the country. "At a time when we are talking about the opioid crisis, it's a crisis in this country," said Chris Anderson, the institute'

A: I have the same problem as you. When I run the ChemCAD software, it instantly crashes. But I do not think this is because I have the 2007 version. I think there is something wrong with the installation. If you have already installed, try to backup the data, install it again, and restore the backup. Link: US 2009/0001212 A1 discloses a method for producing semiconductor devices having a stable threshold voltage, said method comprising the steps of: forming a first masking layer on a surface of a semiconductor substrate to define the locations where a dopant is to be implanted; implanting the dopant through the mask layer into the substrate to form a first implanted area; removing the masking layer; and forming a first dielectric layer on the first implanted area, wherein the first dielectric layer comprises a plurality of voids. US 2008/0039594 A1 discloses a method for forming a field effect transistor (FET) on a semiconductor substrate including a semiconductor layer and a gate dielectric layer on the semiconductor layer wherein the method comprises: forming a mask layer on the gate dielectric layer; patterning and etching the mask layer to form a plurality of openings; annealing the substrate to form a barrier layer on the substrate within the openings; and subjecting the substrate to a nitrogen implantation process using the barrier layer as a partial blocking layer to form a source/drain region and a pocket. U.S. Pat. No. 6,214,760 discloses a method for forming a gated field effect transistor (FET) on a semiconductor substrate, wherein the method comprises: forming a mask layer over a gate region of the semiconductor substrate and a gate dielectric region of the semiconductor substrate; patterning and etching the mask layer to form a plurality of openings in the mask layer; implanting a nitrogen-containing compound into the substrate through the openings to form an N-region, and forming a source/drain region in the substrate and connecting the source/drain region to the N-region. U.S. Pat. No. 6,214,759 discloses
